Two Reagan Aides Named

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (UPI) — President Reagan on Monday appointed Kenneth DeGraffenreid and Constantine Menges to be special assistants to the President for national security affairs. Mr. DeGraffenreid, 39 years old, joined the National Security Council in March 1981 and is now the council's senior director of intelligence programs. Mr. Menges, 45, has served as the council's senior director of Latin American affairs.
